

Dear Clients,

We hope that you are all staying well and safe in these strange times.

Out latest change regarding COVID 19.

We have had to take the unfortunate decision to cancel all routine appointments.

So vaccinations, neuterings , nail clips, etc have all to be stopped.

Only emergencies will now be seen.

As before even if you are to visit us for an emergency, we ask you to stay in your car when you arrive. Please call us, when you are outside, and once the waiting room is clean and clear ,and consult room disinfected and ready we will ask you to come in with your pet.

Please only one person accompany your pet into the building.

If the pet needs support of 2 staff, we will ask you to stay in the car, and we will just take your pet in with us.

In this case we will take history over the phone, or from a distance at car window.

We are investigating the possibility of providing Telemedicine, and we are awaiting guidance from the Royal College on service provision.

Please follow all government guidelines, if you have a new cough. or a temperature please do not come in and ask a neighbour to take your pet in.

Please use all the hand gels provided on entering and leaving the practice.

Make sure that you have washed your hands as per NHS guidelines before leaving your house and visiting the practice.

Please do not put yourself or our staff members at risk. We our doing our best to maintain a service under these conditions.

Please be patient with our staff members as it is uncharted territory for all of us.

Many thanks for your support and patience

A Poem from 10 century Ireland , to remind us to enjoy nature and our animals.
Take advantage of a time with loved ones and to enjoy what the world can behold despite the ongoing world of chaos around us. A few minutes of calm to enjoy below - our imagination can let us travel, no need to leave home.

Summer Has Come

*Summer has come, healthy and free,
Whence the brown wood is aslope;
The slender nimble deer leap,
And the path of seals is smooth.
The cuckoo sings sweet music,
Whence there is smooth restful sleep;
Gentle birds leap upon the hill,
And swift grey stags.*

Heat has laid hold of the rest of the deer,

The lovely cry of curly packs!

The white extent of the strand smiles,

There the swift sea is.

A sound of playful breezes in the tops

Of a black oakwood is Drum Daill,

The noble hornless herd runs,

To whom Cuan-wood is a shelter.

Green bursts out on every herb,

The top of the green oakwood is bushy,

Summer has come, winter has gone,

Twisted hollies wound the hound.

The blackbird sings a loud strain,

To him the live wood is a heritage,

The sad angry sea is fallen asleep,

The speckled salmon leaps.

The sun smiles over every land,

A parting for me from the brood of cares:

Hounds bark, stags tryst, Ravens flourish,

Summer has come!

Take care to all our clients and friends
